U. S. RESTS CASE AGAINST LEWIS

Big Pipe Lines U.S. And Britain Agree To Economic Merger Of Zones In Germany

Krug Discloses Government Plans For Big Inch And Little Inch

FEDERAL AGENCIES TAKE SWIFT ACTION

Tennessee Company Will Lease Lines During Emergency Operation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—A final fight with John L. Lewis was indicated by the government today as Interior Secretary J. A. Krug announced plans for emergency movement of natural gas within six days through the $145,000,000 war-built Big Inch and Little Inch pipe lines.

Krug disclosed the government's plans to the House committee investigating surplus property. He gave no hint that he expects an early end to the national strike.

In fact, he said, the government has drawn plans for four months operation of the pipe lines, for movement of natural gas 1500 miles from the Southwest to Central and Northeastern states. The Tennessee Gas and Transmission Company will lease the lines for operation during the emergency period.

Swift Action

Acting swiftly after Krug's disclosure, the Federal Power Commission announced that it had approved the company's application for permission to make emergency use of the lines. Likewise, the War Assets Administration, which has control of the lines, announced it would grant the company a permit to use them.

Krug's presence before the committee was compelled by subpoena, a virtually unprecedented action against a Cabinet member. The subpoena was issued after he failed to appear last week in response to a request. Aides explained that he was too busy with the coal strike then and today he told the committee he "gladly" presented the case.

"In the next five or six days," he said, "we can be moving 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas through the lines daily. In two or three weeks this can be stepped up to 100,000,000 cubic feet daily and in 45 days, to around 150,000,000 daily."

Ohio To Get Bulk Of Gas

However, he admonished that while "this gas can be a help, it is not the answer." He estimated that the gas would be equivalent to only about 6,000 tons of coal daily, while the normal coal production exceeds 2,000,000 tons daily.

The bulk of the gas moved will be consumed in the Ohio region, he told the committee, emphasizing that this would serve to relieve the fuel pressure in the areas farther east.

Krug said the government expected to make $1,000,000 from the emergency operation—$750,000 from the lease and a $250,000 saving on maintenance costs.

Earlier, Thurman Arnold, former attorney general, called the Big and Little Inch pipe lines "the muscle shafts of the Second World War" and proposed permanent operation by a non-profit co-operative.

Picketing By School Bus Drivers Is Outlawed

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 2 (AP)—The Kanawha County Board of Education today obtained an injunction to prevent picketing by school bus drivers who quit their jobs and left thousands of children without transportation in the first freezing weather this winter.

The injunction was granted by Circuit Judge Julian P. Bouchelle. The board sought the writ to "assure children the rights and privileges to attend school."

School Superintendent Virgil L. Plinn was unable to estimate how many of the 14,000 pupils hauled by the vehicles were prevented from attending classes.

Noted Atom Scientist Sees A-Power As Serious Coal Competitor By 1955

PARIS, Dec. 2 (AP)—Dr. Arthur H. Compton, noted atom scientist, declared today that atomic power might become a serious competitor to the coal industry in the United States by about 1955, provided "political difficulties do not interfere."

His prediction was contained in a speech on the fourth anniversary of the loss of nuclear fission in Chicago, made to a gathering of top-ranking world scientists at Sorbonne University.

Dr. Compton, chancellor of Washington University in St. Louis, Mo., also upheld the use of the atom bomb against Japan, declaring "not to have used this new found power to stop short the most disastrous war of history would have been unpardonable."

He said that heat by-products of atomic energy were being used now in experiments heating water pouring into the Columbia river. He painted a picture of modern cities using heat from central stations without a pall of smoke covering the area, and of atomic power as a source of electricity in areas where coal and water power were scarce or costly.

The Nobel prize winning physicist asserted that the alternative to an agreement that no atom bombs will be made in the future was a competitive armaments race, but he added:

"I believe that the odds favor considerably the view that major wars between the great powers are almost a thing of the past. I was having a nervous breakdown. I was dying of cancer and I was about to get married."

"These things do not go very well together," the 62-year-old widow of the President said in her column in the New York World-Telegram.

Byrnes And Bevin Sign Agreement, Result Of Long Negotiations; Details Kept Secret

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Britain and the United States signed tonight a bi-lateral pact for the economic merger of their zones of occupation in Germany designed to make the territory self-sustaining within three years.

The action came at the end of prolonged negotiations in Germany, Washington and here. The agreement was signed by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

The details were kept secret pending presentation of the terms to the British House of Commons tomorrow afternoon.

Completion of the arrangement was announced by Michael McDermott, State Department spokesman.

It followed two weeks of conferences between Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American occupation chief in Germany, and Gen. Bryan Robinson, of Britain, and their advisors.

50-50 Financing Basis

Although details of the plan were lacking, it was understood on the basis of reports from London that the merger would be carried through on a 50-50 financing basis and would involve a total expenditure by Britain and the United States of approximately $1,000,000,000 over the three-year period.

Both Britain and the United States—thus far without success—have attempted to persuade Russia and France to join in the economic merger of Germany, contending that it would reduce substantially the cost of occupation and speed the economic recovery of Europe.

Under the setup prior to the merger, the United States level, exclusive of maintaining troops, amounted to approximately $200,000,000 annually. This money went chiefly for relief foods in Germany.

Meanwhile, the four-power Foreign Ministers Council set a $150,000,000 ceiling tonight on the total amount of war reparations which Greece and Yugoslavia will each receive from Italy and Bulgaria.

Just how this figure will be split in assessments against the two former enemy countries remained undecided. The French suggested that it would be split 50-50.

Under the adopted plan, the return would be administered by local organizations rather than by an international group as advocated by Byrnes. In the event that the former owner had died or could not be located, the property would be used for Jewish relief.

In the course of a three-and-a-half hour session, the council attempted to plug an apparent loophole in removal of occupation troops from the trouble spot of Trieste after the zone's international government deems that step possible.

Yugoslavia has indicated its opposition to the Italian peace pact, containing the Trieste clauses, leaving open the possibility that the Yugoslav government will refuse to sign the treaty.

Negro Veteran Gives Testimony In Bilbo Inquiry

Ex-Soldier Says He Was Refused Registration, Later Was Beaten

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 2 (AP)—Senate investigators of Sen. Theo G. Bilbo's primary campaign tactics heard today testimony by a negro veteran that he had been beaten after he was refused registration for voting.

The veteran swore that he was flogged by white men, but a white chiropractor later testified that the man had said he was attacked by negroes.

Other negroes said that Bilbo's speeches had frightened many away from the registration offices and Bilbo was renominated in the primary last July 2 for a third term.

The testimony was given in a jamped federal courtroom where the five investigating senators sat in a jury box.

Bilbo Leaves Courtroom

Wearing a brown suit and his "trademark" red peccadillo and diamond horseshoe stickpin, Bilbo hunched over a counsel table. Occasionally he smiled fleetingly, but took no part in the questioning of witnesses. Bilbo left the courtroom during the appearance of the negro veteran, Eloy Fletcher.

Fletcher, who told of serving overseas during the war, testified that he was refused registration in Brandon, Miss., because the "man in the office" told him he had not read a pamphlet relating to the United States Constitution.

This man sent him to another described as "the man who handles veterans," Fletcher said, and the second man told him that "we were not allowed to vote in Rankin county and if I did not want to get into serious trouble I would leave the building."

On the street a few minutes later, Fletcher related, four white men forced him into an automobile, drove him to a wooded area, made him strip and beat him on the legs with "a piece of car cable."

Chiropractor Testifies

"They told me not to tell anyone else, but just to let anybody else who wanted to come try it," Fletcher said.

The man drove him back to town, testified, stopping outside at the home of another white man. He said the four told the man, "Here's a fellow who's going to vote for Bill. Do you want to whip him?"

Fletcher said he was not beaten again. Under questioning, he said he could not explain the reference to voting for Bilbo.

E. J. Matranga, who described himself as a Jackson chiropractor, testified that Fletcher came to his office on June 13 for treatment of an injury to his right leg.

Markey Notifies O'Conor He Will Contest Election

Formal Petition To Be Served; Board Certifies Governor's Victory

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 2 (AP)—Although Maryland's 1946 election machinery came to an official halt today, D. John Markey, Republican candidate for United States Senate, formally notified Gov. O'Conor he would contest the Chief Executive's election.

Markey's attorney and running mate for attorney general, George Cochran Doub, prepared the notice, sent by registered mail to the Governor and to the Senate Committees on Privileges and Elections and Investigation of Senatorial Campaign Expenditures.

The notice observed that the Senate itself was the final judge of elections, returns and qualifications of its members under the Constitution.

Formal Petition Planned

It added a formal petition would be served later informing the Governor and the Senate of the grounds of the contest.

Meanwhile, in a purely performance, the State Board of Canvassers certified returns of the general election.

Secretary of State Edward C. Chaney said there were no protests from parties or candidates regarding the returns which were certified previously by the several clerks of court.

The board certified the O'Conor victory by a vote of 237,232 to 235,000.

Commissions Being Sent

Markey supporters have asked Markey election judges to re-examine any irregularities in the conduct of the general election.

Commissions for the various minor offices are being sent to the elected officials now that the election results are certified.

Attending the Board of Canvassers session today were Secretary of State Chaney, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and Clerk of Court of Appeals Maurice Ogle.

Resentments

Have you ever driven over a road that every once in a while gives you a jolt from some upheaval? Of course you have, and so have I. And usually that jolt gives a jolt to one's temper as well! That's the way it is with resentments that we carry around with us.

Pulling our mind with resentments—no matter how what is like that jolt road. It takes smoothness out of an otherwise possible serene mind. Each of us has our own troubles and problems to face, but to sandwich resentments in between them is utter folly and unlikelihood.

There are those who resent the success of others—success, they, too, being envious, had they the same will and determination to go ahead. All success is relative. It cannot be placed upon a money basis. Success is mental and spiritual. Success is what we do with what we have that counts. We should rejoice at the success of others, and ourselves be inspired by it.

Every resentment that we harbor is a germ for possible unhappiness, working like a termite, in a solid character. We are all born with a certain equipment—every one of us with capacities different, and limited to what birth has given to us. We never know just how great or small this equipment is. Each one of us has to work with what we have, and learn to make the most of it.

This world, and life of ours, are filled with inequalities. The worst possible use to make of this fact, however, is to allow resentments to possess us. All of us have imagined limitations, but we have also the privilege of pushing them aside, and spreading our lives out! We never know any of our limitations until we put ourselves to the test. There are always "growing pains" working within us.

People who clutter their lives up with resentments, always have a rocky road to travel. They give no peace of mind and they disease even the physical structure of this body of ours. To say nothing of our spirit's nature. Then why engage in resentments? Why not wipe them all out?

Rescued Teachers Return To Classes

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 2 (AP)—Two women school teachers, lost for nine hours in a thickly wooded mountain in freezing weather, showed up at their classrooms today, none the worse for their experience, save for scratches and aching muscles.

A searching party of three men found the two rural instructors, Miss Marion Forney, of nearby Paxtang, and Miss Beatrice Watkins, Wiconisco, about midnight huddled beside a small fire they had started with their last match.

During their adventure the two teachers stumbled through underbrush over two mountain ranges and fell into an icy stream. One lost a shoe in a swamp.

The two had motored into the mountains near Wiconisco in upper Dauphin county Sunday afternoon to hunt for evergreens for classroom decorations. Searching parties were organized when they failed to return.

Lane, Back From Vacation, Will Confer With O'Conor

Absentee-Voter Laws, Governor's Resignation Plans To Be Discussed

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2 (AP)—Governor-elect W. Preston Lane, Jr., returned from a southern vacation trip, said today he planned to confer with Gov. O'Conor on the state's absentee-voter laws and O'Conor's resignation plans.

Lane said he and O'Conor would discuss repeal of the emergency servicemen's absentee ballot regulations and its possible effect on filing dates for candidates in Baltimore City's mayoralty campaign.

If mail voting privileges are retained, the filing date is expected to be moved up, shortening the primary campaign period considerably.

Lane said he has asked O'Conor to issue a proclamation terminating the absentee voter law since there is no longer any need for it. The Governor-elect said he hoped to be able to confer personally with O'Conor either tomorrow or Wednesday when a decision might be made.

Lane explained the early filing of candidates, on January 2, is reserved only for the convenience of absentee voters.

"In the recent general election," he said, "500,000 people voted, but there were only 137 absentee ballots cast."

Termination of the absentee voter law would move the final filing date of candidates for Baltimore mayor back to March.

Democratic leaders have urged O'Conor to resign as Governor in order to be on hand when the Senate convenes January 3. O'Conor has said he would await a conference with Lane on the subject before taking any such action.

Lane pointed out that if O'Conor should resign before the 1947 General Assembly convenes on January 1, the State Senate president, James J. Lindsay, would automatically become Governor for the remainder of the unexpired term.

But if O'Conor resigns after the new legislature convenes, that body would choose his successor, who would serve through January 7.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Two Girls Of 17 Who Are Close Friends Are

After The Same Boy

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:
We are two girls of 17, who are very close friends and love each other like sisters.

We have met a boy whom we know we both love. I have gone out with him several times, and he knows that my girl friend also loves him. He claims he heard we had a fight over him, which is not true. Now he says if that's the way it's going to be, he will not take either of us out. He is 21 years old, and not the concealed type. What should we do?

"TWO UNHAPPY GIRLS"

Well, girls, I think the first thing you'd better do is to stop thinking and talking about "loving" this boy. You're taking much too weighty a view for what might be a pleasant mutual friendship for all concerned. If you're both "in love" with him, it'd be sensible about it.

Why try to force this young man into making a choice between the two of you? He certainly doesn't appear to be serious over either one, and I should think the quickest way to make him lose any casual interest he may have in you would be to take this silly attitude that you're both "in love" with him.

I don't blame him at all for saying he won't take either of you out. Whether or not you actually had a fight over him is beside the point. The fact is that by letting him know you're both infatuated with him, you've quite obviously thrown a scare into him, and he's looking around to locate the nearest exit in case your struggles for his attention become too much of a nuisance.

My advice to you is to accept your boy friend as a casual comrade and let it go at that. If you don't, he's going to drop you, but fast.

18-Year-Old "Crybaby"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18 years old, and for the past 18 months I have been going steady with a girl of 16 whom I love very much. She tells me that she loves me very much and couldn't love anyone else, but she hurts me so terribly at times that I have to cry, which is so often.

I only get to see her twice a week, on account of my work, and usually one of those nights she would rather go to the dance with one of her girl friends instead of being with me. And when she does, I don't know what to do with myself that night. I can't have any fun no matter what I do. The only time I feel I can have any fun is when I'm with her. All week I feel sort of sick about it, and can't get my mind off her for a moment. Please tell me what to do. I'll go nuts if I keep being hurt by her.

"CRYBABY"

You sound to me, "Crybaby," as though a 16-year-old girl were too old for you, and you ought to pick your girl friend from the kindergarten set. That's the only age that can get along with crybabies.

I should think this girl of whom you write would rather go to a dance with her girl friends than spend her evening with you crying on her shoulder. That's hardly very fascinating entertainment.

What's the matter with you, anyhow? Can't you fight back if your girl says something you don't like? Haven't you sense enough to see that if you stood up for yourself and acted like a male creature instead of a female infant, your girl would very likely stop trying to hurt you? The way things are now, you're just asking for it. She can't resist the ludicrous spectacle of a practically grown man bursting into tears over trifles that he ought to laugh off. Besides which, it gives her a fine sense of power to be able to bring it about.

Why not try being your age? Once you've won her respect for being a strong he-man, instead of trying to gain her sympathy—and only succeeding in getting her contempt—for your whimpering, you might find things taking a turn for the better.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

PENICILLIN IN SKIN DISORDERS

WEN Fleming discovered penicillin, the preparation was first applied to the skin as it was too toxic to be injected. After improvements were made in the crude extract, the hypodermic route was found to be more effective. On the other hand, physicians have not neglected to explore the possibilities of salves or ointments containing the remedy. Various products of this type are available. The drug can also be incorporated into a solution to be used in a spray or impregnated on gauze as a moist dressing. As a rule, the powder form is too irritating.

When employed at the site of infection, the mold penetrates the tissues. Since some species of germs are indifferent to the antibiotic agent, not all skin disorders are affected. Those caused by the staphylococcus, streptococcus, meningococcus, gonococcus, and others are most likely to respond.

There are several reports on the effect of penicillin salves and solutions on impetigo. This contagious malady of strep or staph origin is often difficult to eradicate. It starts as a small lesion covered by a raised, moist, yellow crust. Spread occurs and ultimately large surfaces are literally dotted with lesions. In one series 11 out of 12 were cured within four days. In another study, 11 severe cases had not been helped by the usual medication given over a period of three weeks to several months. The crusts were removed and the parts washed with hydrogen peroxide. Penicillin ointment was then applied and the epidermis cleared in all within three to seven days.

Sycoptic barbae, a form of barber's itch caused by the staphylococcus, is also influenced favorably. The infection attacks the bearded region near the upper lip and along the fringes of the mouth. The condition differs from the more common form due to a fungus, located in the hair beneath the jaws. The substance must be used for a long time or a return engagement may be expected.

Penicillin has likewise proved valuable in certain eczemas as well as carbuncles and crops of boils. It is utilized not only locally but hypodermically and the results are particularly good when the lesions tend to recur on the scalp and in the armpits. Infections in and about varicose ulcers have been controlled by combining the treatment with pressure bandages, elastic stockings and other procedures.

Approximately two to four percent of the population are sensitive to the topical administration of penicillin. In some instances the mold appears to be working well only to be followed by a setback within a few days. When such a situation arises the drug must be discontinued as the chances are that the change is due to a reaction rather than extension of the disease. In others, the treated region becomes red, warm, and puffy. But in spite of this drawback the great majority of individuals tolerate the treatment and, in suitable conditions, relief should be anticipated.

COUNT THE CALORIES

P. T. writes: Can a person on a reducing diet take cocktails and highballs?

REPLY

You can figure this out for yourself. For example, a brandy glass of gin provides 75 calories and the same amount of houmou, 85 calories. Add to this the fuel value of the remaining ingredients and you will see that the total calories for the day you indulge will be much higher unless you eat less. But substituting alcohol for food is not desirable.

Furthermore, it is not easy to remain on a rigid diet after a few weeks more to serve. They would have to act hastily if at all, with the knowledge whatever legislation they adopted would probably be repealed or revamped by the incoming Congress. Of course, not even the more rabid anti-union Republicans, as far as it can be learned, have the remotest idea of destroying, or even crippling, labor unions. That does not mean that there is not need for a balance in the laws which govern industrial disputes. So the more sensible procedure would be to take up the question of new labor legislation when the new Congress convenes rather than recall the 75th Congress. The situation calls for more than a piece of patchwork. What is needed is a review and revision of the whole field of federal labor law. There should be amendment of the anti-trust and anti-monopoly laws to bring labor unions under their provisions.

The Wagner Act, now entirely lopsided in favor of the union, because of the interpretations read into it by administrators, as pointed out by Mark Sullivan on this page today, should be repealed or revised. Other laws which grant unions special privileges and immunities without imposing equivalent responsibilities upon them should also be reviewed.

Legislation alone cannot insure industrial peace. But it is possible to revise laws which have been promoted and intensified strife between labor and management. The new Congress has no job to do that is more important than this one, but it does not follow, as Mr. Murray knows full well, that this legislation must take a vengeful form.

Was the story that John Lewis once knocked down a mine mule with one blow of the fist concocted to prove that he is a better man than a mule?

Principle At Stake In Demand For Housing Grant

George Allen, director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is beginning to win real esteem by the manner in which he is standing up against the treasury-raiding tactics of Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt. To date neither ridicule nor political pressure has been strong enough to move him from the sound position that government funds are taxpayers' money and therefore should not be loosely drunk about.

In his controversy with Mr. Wyatt, the RFC director is up against one of those free spenders who were darlings of the left-wingers and all those other elements in the nation which want Uncle Sam to act as a year-round Santa Claus. That the dispute happens to be over federal housing and this may be delaying erection of chicken-coop homes may be unfortunate, but there is a growing conviction that the nation has all the "temporary" housing it can stand. What people need is homes, not shacks.

And in the long run it would be disastrous for the nation if Mr. Allen yielded to the demands of Mr. Wyatt and established the principle that there is no harm in lending $52,000,000 of the taxpayers' money to a corporation which is so barren of assets and financial standing that it can put up only $36,000 of its own money.

Housing emergency or not, this nation has had enough experience with shoestring operators. As the war so amply demonstrates, men who themselves have no capital to protect can be reckless spenders but only moderate producers. If a project has sufficient merit to warrant a government loan, the money should go to concerns which are of recognized stability and certain of success that they are willing to risk their own resources.

That is the American way.

One Wojciechowicz is a football player for an eastern college, but fortunately his opponents are not compelled to pronounce it.

MacArthur Bans Newspaper Critics; U. S. Army Troubles In Korea; Army Makes Progress In Cancer Cure. Surgeon General Feuding With Doctor Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—A top-secret cablegram has just been received by the War Department from General MacArthur, barring several important newspapers from taking a trip to Japan. They include the New York Herald Tribune, Christian Science Monitor, Chicago Sun, San Francisco Chronicle, PM, and the Daily Worker.

In his telegram to the War Department, General MacArthur accused these papers of "downright quackery and dishonesty."

MacArthur's cable was sent after the War Department wired him, suggesting that a group of newspaper editors and correspondents make a brief tour of Japan and Korea, as they recently did through Germany. The War Department, which is always loath to make suggestions to MacArthur, phrased the telegram in tactful language, proposing that it might be a good idea to let the press get a real picture of the occupation.

The Supreme Commander in the Pacific was not hesitant about replying. First he objected; then, when the War Department sent him a second cable, he reluctantly accepted—but turned thumbs down on the above-mentioned papers.

While many Army men would agree with MacArthur's opposition to the Daily Worker, which is an official Communist publication, the War Department was surprised at MacArthur's banning the Christian Science Monitor, which is nonpartisan, and the New York Herald Tribune which is Republican. The San Francisco Chronicle, also Republican, is edited by Paul C. Smith, who had a brilliant war record in the Marine Corps and Navy, and who, during a recent trip through Germany, was vigorous in his praise of the U. S. Army's work.

SECRETARY BYRNE ON MACARTHUR

MacArthur's top-secret telegram read in full:

"CINCPAC, Tokyo—While continuing my doubts as to the advisability of the contemplated trip, in view of the insistence of the War Department, I will withdraw my objection. I would like to have an opportunity to pass upon those contemplated for selection before their invitation is accomplished. I believe the list should not include actual writers but should be limited to publishers and editors and should not include those connected with newspapers of known hostility to the occupation. Such papers are the Christian Science Monitor, Herald Tribune, Chicago Sun, San Francisco Chronicle, PM, Daily Worker and others of this stamp whose articles and editorials have not only been slandered but have approached downright quackery and dishonesty. Signed—MacArthur."

EVERY MAN WHO VALUES HIS HEALTH WILL READILY ADMIT HE OWES EVERYTHING TO SOME GIRL FRIEND. BUT THERE WAS NEVER ONE WHO

Listen World

By ELSIE ROBINSON

ARE WOMEN A TREAT?

At last, after thousands of years of romantic patty-cake between the sexes, someone has dared to ask the fearful question—

BUT DO MEN REALLY LIKE WOMEN?"?

"Of course they like us," snorts the amazed sisterhood. "Men may be stupid, selfish, coarse, ungrateful brutes, but at least they have one virtue. They appreciate women. Lookit how they court us, work for us, depend upon us. What would any man amount to without our help and inspiration? Nothing!"

Whereupon all wise males grin and say, "So-e-e-o." Meaning what? Meaning, I fear, a refined form of Bronx cheer. And expensive experience forces me to admit, girls, that our rosy dreams are horse feathers.

Undoubtedly there are times and moods when Papa dotes upon the little woman. But there are far more frequent moods when he practically forgets she exists. Or frankly wishes she didn't. For the simple truth is—Papa has many other chores to do, such as playing hockey, selling socks or soaking suckers. And the majority of Mamas still believe the sales talk he gave before they were engaged.

This statement will not be popular with the ladies. It will put me, pronto, in the dog house. But it's true, girls, it's true.

"It can't be!" you cry. "We've heard them say how wonderful we are. We've heard them claim in public that everything they did owe to some woman."

Yes, deary, you've heard them say so and you've eaten their candy and worn their rings and thought you had the straight dope. But you have also heard the sidewalk spicers who claim to have a cure for everything including bunions, cancer, acne and bay windows. And the statements are on a par.

EVERY MAN WHO VALUES HIS HEALTH WILL READILY ADMIT HE OWES EVERYTHING TO SOME GIRL FRIEND. BUT THERE WAS NEVER ONE WHO

REALLY BELIEVED IT FOR TEN SECONDS.

We would have heaps mor fun in both our homes and offices if we could face this vital fact and cut out the fairy tales.

Do men really like women? Yes. When. If. And where.

Meanwhile, sister, if you're smart, you'll be satisfied with the baby and the movies and a 50-cent box of candy once a year.

Two Girls Rob Hospital Patient

According to police two girls, one from Cumberland and the other from Ridgeley, took $10 from Miss Ruth Lewis, of Ellerslie, while visiting her in Allegany Hospital Saturday afternoon. Police added that both girls knew that Miss Lewis, who was admitted to the hospital on November 28 after she was injured in an automobile accident, had been given $10 for expense money.

The police version is that one of the girls took the money from Miss Lewis' pocketbook while the other engaged her in conversation. Soon after they left the patient noticed the money was gone and police were notified.

Ridgeley police found the girls in Ridgeley and took them to police headquarters in Cumberland, where they emphatically denied they took the money. Finally they confessed to Assistant Chief of Police John J. Treiber and police recovered $7 of the $10. The girls said they bought sandwiches and a round of beer for two "gentlemen acquaintances."

Police returned $7 to Miss Lewis, who said she did not wish to prosecute the girls. One of the girls was reported to have said "we took the money as a sort of practical joke."

Jail Term Suspended

A suspended 30-day jail term was given Anthony Hickle, 5 Grand View avenue by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in Trial Magistrates court Saturday morning on an assault charge preferred by his wife, Mrs. Elsie Hickle, who said the alleged assault took place last Thursday. Sentence was suspended on condition that Hickle pay $4.50 court costs and refrain from assaulting his wife.

Under today's unusual conditions, two families often are forced to share the same living quarters. This creates many problems. Here are some helpful suggestions by Mrs. Anna W. M. Wolf, Director of the Family Consultation Service of the Child Study Association of America.

1 Live and let live

"Nowadays many older people are sharing their homes with married sons and daughters to tide them over this present difficult period of readjustment.

"Both families should respect each other's freedom, and remember that people of different ages very often have different tastes and needs. The younger people may like to go out for dinner or dancing occasionally without feeling that they have to explain. And, they in turn should always remember that living in someone else's home calls for tact and consideration."

2 Which expenses should be shared?

"When independent couples are living together, they'll get along better if they agree in advance to share the work as well as the common expenses such as food, rent, light, heat and telephone. It's best to do this right at the start. They should live up to the agreement faithfully."

"At times, unforeseen circumstances like illness may come up to alter these arrangements. When this happens, the money plan should not be too rigid, or rules too strict. Getting along well depends far more on the spirit of the agreement than on the form."

"At all times a generous spirit on both sides is basic."

3 How to make your plan work

"Keeping accurate accounts is valuable, especially at first. It's a good idea to know where money goes and why it costs so much to live. But more experienced people may not need to write down all their expenses—every cent they spend."

"Consideration about paying promptly makes for good feeling. So does consideration about waiting for settlements when there have been special circumstances."

"The most important thing to remember always is that a spirit of mutual consideration is absolutely fundamental when families double up."

HOW TO PLAN FOR FAMILY HAPPINESS

Regardless of the size of income, any family can have more happiness and fewer worries by planning the use of the family money.

First: provide in advance for payments coming due, such as rent, taxes, mortgage charges, life insurance and other insurance. The easiest way is to bank small amounts each payday that will add up to the totals when due.

Second: set aside something extra each payday in the savings account until you build up an emergency fund.

Then you know what is left to spend on everyday family needs such as food, clothing, recreation—and what you can set aside for such family plans as a new home, education, travel.

Because the life insurance companies and their agents have long helped people to plan for family security and happiness, they are conducting this program of information as a public service to the 71,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American family.

CONTRALTO SOLOIST - Lillian Knowles will sing the contralto solo parts in the Cumberland Choral Society's presentation of the Messiah, December 10, Jack Platt, director has announced.

Knowles And Metz To Sing In Choral Club's Messiah

Christmas Oratorio To Be Presented At Allegany High, Dec. 10

Lillian Knowles and Lucius Metz have been secured to sing solo parts in the Cumberland Choral Society's presentation of the Messiah, December 10, Jack Platt, musical director, announces. He spent the holiday weekend in New York interviewing and engaging them.

Mrs. Knowles, the third artist to be announced for the Messiah, will sing the contralto solos. Reviewers have declared that her reputation as a recitalist finds its roots in her sensitive interpretations, outstanding musicianship and delicately balanced dramatic restraint. Any one of her gifts would entitle her to the recognition she has received universally, but it is her highly intelligent use of them that has caused her critics to state simply and eloquently, "Her greatest singer."

Her stature as an artist may be judged by the imposing list of great and well-known conductors with whom she has appeared as contralto soloist, not once but repeatedly. Among them are Hugh Ross of New York's Schola Cantorum; Dr. Stock, Chicago Symphony, Dimitri Mitropoulos, Vladimir Golschmann, Eugene Goossens, Ifor Jones, conductor of the famous Bethlehem Bach Festival and Sir Thomas Beecham.

Mr. Metz, who is tenor soloist at St. Bartholomew's Church, New York, will sing the tenor parts in the Messiah. Barbara Tressell will sing the soprano and Rev. James A. Richards, the baritone.

The meeting will be held at the home of Miss Janet Anderson, 203 National Highway, LaVale, with Miss Sara Wright and Mrs. A. L. Rogers as co-hostesses.

A discussion period will be held following Miss White's talk.

FROSTBURG, Dec. 2.—The first of a series of five concerts scheduled at Frostburg State Teachers College during the current school year will be presented Thursday, 8:15 p. m., in the college auditorium. The performers will be the Janet Bush opera quartet, singing "The Garden and Prison Scene," from Faust and the second act of "Samson and Delilah."

Other members of the quartet are Anna Compton and Brooks Dunbar. The latter has been in the foreground of the movement to bring opera in English to the American stage. Although he sings in six languages, his main interest is in the American song.

The concerts, free to the general public, will be presented at the college through the efforts of Prof. Maurice Matteson, head of the music department of the college. Mrs. Neilson Dies

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2 — Maybe you've been reading "Kenny" as it appeared serially each month. If you have, you'll be especially interested to hear that Brynne Foy has bought the film rights to Louis Brownfield's novel, which has been appearing serially in my favorite fiction magazine — Cosmopolitan, of course. You'll also be interested to hear that Richard Basehart, who won the Academy Award in 1945 for his performance in "Hasty Heart," has been signed by Brynne and will play the lead in "Kenny."

I call that a real home run for Brynne. In fact, two home runs getting both "Kenny" and Basehart. Congratulations to Eagle-Lion.

Over the weekend, at Palm Springs, Joan Fontaine read the script of "Ivy" and she may step into the same role her sister, Olivia De Havilland, just nixed. Apparently, Joan likes the story and is not influenced by the fact that Livvy felt it was too much like "Dark Mirror." Olivia, at no time, had anything against the story, only she felt that she didn't want another psychological movie. If Joan does say yes, it means that she's no longer a candidate for "The Hucksters" and that "Written on the Wind" will be postponed. Perhaps the fact that Joan's husband, Bill Dozier, is an executive at Universal-International and "Ivy" is one of their pictures, had something to do with her decision.

Vera Caspary's new novel, "Stranger Than Truth" was snapped up quicker than a flash, as I knew it would be. I had an advance copy and read it. That gal certainly knows how to write these murder mysteries. This one has a magazine publishing business background, and believe me, I am glad I don't work under her.

such excitement. Miss Caspary has sold the screen rights to David Siegel, for United Artists, with Lew Ayres playing the magazine editor Isadore Goldsmith, who made such a good picture out of Miss Caspary's novel, "Bedelia," will co-produce with Herman Milakowsky. And in case you don't know it, there's real romance between Miss Caspary and Mr. Goldsmith. He is a very charming person.

I am plenty proud of Bebe Daniels, and so are all her other friends and admirers. On December 9, Bebe will be presented with the medal of freedom, the second highest possible honor awarded any civilian. It's a medal given to those who since Pearl Harbor have rendered outstanding service outside this country. The nice part of the whole thing is that when General Eaker presents this medal to Bebe at March Field, her husband, Ben Lyon will be right there with her, to also receive a medal. Ben gets the Legion of Merit. The Lyons are the best loved Americans in London and their service during the war will never be forgotten by the loyal English.

Chatter in Hollywood: Frank Sinatra is a very sick boy, far sicker than anyone except those closest to him know. He's applied for a leave of absence January 1 from his radio show and will take four weeks to get his health back. That's reason given by those close to him for his recent outbursts of temper. Well, I know how it is when you don't feel well—and don't like anybody. So I think I understand a little better about Frankie, who had everyone ready to tell him just to stay in New York, and not bother coming back to Hollywood.

Hazel Brooks (Mrs. Cedric Gibbons) who we told you a long time ago had made a test for Charles Enfield, told me about the new contract just given her. "I thought my test was terrible," she said, "and I couldn't have been more depressed. I told Cedric, 'It's all over—they'll never sign me'—when along came telegram to New York asking me to meet Charlie Enfield and sign the contract. Now I'm back at the studio making tests for 'Burning Journey,' John Garfield's picture."

BALTIMORE, (AP) — The birthplace of the flag Francis Scott Key saw "waving in the dawn's early light" is about to take its place in the Monumental City's higher society of monuments.

Under a $65,000 appropriation by the board of estimates, the old house where Mary Pickersgill made Fort McHenry's Star Spangled Banner during the battle of Baltimore in 1814 will get a square, a picket fence and a few other distinguished fineries.

The house is now crowded between dilapidated buildings on a deteriorated street.

Twenty-one deer fell before hunters' guns yesterday in Allegany county as the six-day season got under way, according to reports furnished by three checking stations and Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

Army-Navy Game Officials Upheld By Asa Bushnell

Middle Eleven Had No More Time Coming, Commissioner Declares

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. (AP) — The confusion that wound up the Army-Navy game last Saturday in Philadelphia was ruled on exactly according to the book, and the Middle had no more time coming, according to the czar of eastern inter-collegiate athletics who commanded the game's officials.

Speaking at the weekly luncheon of the Football Writers' Association, Asa Bushnell, the commissioner of eastern inter-collegiate athletics who designates officials for all eastern games, backed up Referee Bill Halloran in Saturday's scramble which saw the game end with Navy on Army's five-yard line, fourth down, as the clock ran out.

Navy Coach Tom Hamilton contended that a Middle sub, Bob Van Sumner, was on the field and on his way to reporting to the officials a few seconds before the finish, which would have stopped the clock and enabled the Middle to get in one more play. After the game, he said Navy Captain Leon Bramlett was calling to an official, trying to point out the incoming sub, but that the clock ticked off the final few seconds before the official did anything.

Followed Rule Book

Had the substitute arrived in time and the officials halted the clock, the Middle would have been penalized five yards back to the 10 for an extra time out, and might possibly have run one more play.

The officials followed the rule book, Bushnell maintained today after receiving Halloran's report.

"There is a too prevalent inclination to blame officials for things like this. There was no reason to blame them in Saturday's affair."

As to what the referee or his associates officials saw the incoming substitute through the hundreds of fans who were permitted to pour onto the field and line the sides-lines, Bushnell asserted he did not believe it would have made any difference anyway.

"The electric clock operator on the field," he related, "said that when the substitute passed him, where he was standing on the 30 yard line, the clock showed exactly two seconds to go. Even if the clock had been stopped, there would hardly have been time for another play after the substitute had checked in, the five yard penalty marched off and the ball put back in play. At that time, Halloran was down on the five spotting the ball from the last play so could not have noticed the substitute.

Williams Hit In Bounds

"As for the statement that the Navy captain tried to point out the incoming substitute to an official, Referee Halloran, in his report, said no request was made of him. What's more, the rule book states specifically that no captain can ask more than four timeouts a period, unless there is a designated injured player."

There had been some discussion, too, over whether Pete Williams, on what was the last play of the ball game, had been knocked out of bounds by the tackle, which also would have stopped the clock.

"Jack Winter, our assistant lines-man who was right there said Williams was knocked a good two yards in from the sidelines," Bushnell declared.

Besides Bushnell, several other speakers at the football writers' luncheon brought up the Army-Navy clash. Minnesota Coach Bernie Bierman suggested a change in the rules to eliminate the clock entirely and have a football game played simply by putting the ball in play 40 times in each quarter, regardless of time. Assistant Army Line Coach Jabol Jabolson put in a "we told you so" referring to a speech Line Coach Herman Hickman made last week in which he warned that Navy is ready "to claw our eyes out."

"They didn't quite claw them out entirely," he grinned, "but they certainly left a few scratches."

CERDAN TESTS ABRAMS IN AMERICAN DEBUT

Textile Union Rejects Offer Of 5 Cent Raise

Local 1874 Requests Federal Conciliator To Attend Meeting Next Tuesday Morning

An offer of a five-cent per hour across-the-board wage increase made by officials of the Celanese Corporation of America, was rejected yesterday by the Negotiating Committee of Local 1874 TWUWA, which is asking a flat 18 cents per hour raise, union heads said.

Commenting on the company offer, William Boyd Coleman, president of Local 1874, said "to talk of five cents an hour at this time is ridiculous." The committee's refusal brought to an end the second meeting with the company since negotiations were started.

Seek Arbitration

The Union suggested that the difference between the Company and the union be referred to arbitration for settlement but is awaiting a company reply to the proposal.

Negotiations will be resumed next Tuesday morning, Coleman said, adding that the local has requested a federal conciliator to attend the meeting, which Herbert W. Parke, director of the Rayon Division and vice president of Textile Workers Union of America, is also expected to attend.

In explaining the rejection, Coleman said "the company just last week hiked var prices at the Amoco plant by more than $5,000,000 per year. Apparently they feel that it is all right for the company to cover higher operating costs, but it is improper for workers in the plant to want to meet their increased living costs."

Seek 18 Cent Raise

The union membership recently voted unanimously to authorize the negotiating committee the right to seek an 18 cents per hour wage increase at the local plant, in accord with a resolution passed by the conference of rayon workers in New York.

Negotiations for the present demands were opened November 21, when the union committee formally presented its demands for a flat increase to company officials. Yesterday's proposal for a five cent raise, was the company's answer to the demands made at the initial meeting.

B. And O. Shops Will Furlough 63 Employees Today

Laying off of 63 employees in the Cumberland shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad as part of a furlough affecting 1,062 employees throughout the system, becomes effective today, railroad officials announced yesterday in Baltimore. The layoffs were attributed to a reduction of business caused by the coal mine shutdown.

Local officials of the railroad said, however, that they will not know until this afternoon how many men will be affected here. They said reductions are to be made both here and in Keyser.

In addition to the announced furlough here, work at the Keyser hump has been reduced from three tricks to one trick a day, railroad officials said, a cut that affects about 30 men, 15 on each of the two tricks.

It was explained, however, that this does not mean the 30 men are out of work because most of them are enough seniority to "bump" younger men. Younger men, in turn, will be placed on the extra line.

Yesterday it was reported that about 16 of 24 small non-union coal mines along the B. and O. system were closed down yesterday, when the workers went deer hunting.

Commission Will Inspect Bus Site

At the suggestion of Dr. Thomas W. Koon, chairman, the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday decided to visit the proposed site of a permanent bus terminal at the corner of Bedford and Centre streets for a study "on the ground" within the next week or two.

H. W. Smith, commission secretary, was asked to contact A. E. McDonald, Hagerstown, in charge of operations for the Blue Ridge Transportation Company, and invite him to be present when the commission inspects the site.

In the meantime, commission members indicated they will give further study to the floor plan and traffic routing suggestions already proposed.

A national oil company has obtained an option on the property involved, and the company plans to use a small portion of the lot to erect a gasoline service station and sublet the remainder to the Blue Ridge company.

Smith reported at yesterday's commission meeting that at a State Roads Commission meeting in Baltimore last week, it was decided to redeck the Wiley Ford bridge but that the structure is safe for the designated maximum load of 10,000 pounds.

The State Roads Commission also approved of the local overhead bridge project, pointing out that it would provide a definite relief for downtown and through traffic, it was said.

Leaders Report $19,514 Raised In YMCA Drive

Total Represents $6,039 In Cash, $13,475 In Memberships

Leaders in Central YMCA's campaign to raise $58,000 for modernization and mortgage retirement purposes reported last night that a combined total of $19,514 has been raised so far in the drive, which was launched November 25.

The total represents $13,475 in sustaining memberships, and $6,039 in cash contributions. The $125 memberships cover a period of five years.

Piper Gives Report

Charles A. Piper, co-chairman with Edmund S. Burke of the advance gifts committee, reported at the campaign dinner in the Y-gymnasium that his group has collected $5,125 in cash and $8,200 in sustaining memberships.

Piper pointed out that the collections so far represent 23 per cent of the committee's quota of $45,500, despite the fact that only 17 per cent of the prospect cards assigned to the group have been "worked."

John J. Robinson, campaign chairman, who presided, urged the workers to try to complete their records by the second report dinner, which will be held next Monday at 6:15 p. m. at the "Y." He said new workers could be recruited if necessary to complete work on prospect cards.

Through Canvas Urged

Pointing out that nearly one-third of the campaign quota has already been reached, Burke, who is president of the YMCA board of directors, said that next week's report should be even higher because there will be no holiday to interfere with canvassing as there was over Thanksgiving. He urged leaders to make a thorough canvass of workers to make sure that all prospect cards are handled.

The organizations division, headed by James W. Bishop, with a goal of $7,500, reported totals of $4,375 in memberships and $150 in cash.

Mrs. Porter D. Collins, chairman of the women's division, said that her group, with a quota of $1,000, has raised $154 in cash and $500 in memberships, well over half the goal.

Final Rites Held For Crash Victim

Final rites were held yesterday afternoon for Riley D. Heavner, 23, Route 3, who was fatally injured in a two car collision on Baltimore Pike last Thursday night.

Services were conducted in Steine's Chapel by Rev. George E. Baughman and interment was in Hillcrest Burial Park. The Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion was in charge of military services for Heavner, who was discharged from the Navy in May.

Pallbearers were John C. Neff, George Kline, George Zimmerla, Albert Kerns, Vernon Crabb and Frank B. Hynes. The color guard included R. J. Showers, James Jones and Truman Fuller.

TAKE OATH OF OFFICE

William H. Lemmert, of Frostburg, and Charles N. "Jerry" Wilkinson, DeHaven road, are shown here taking the oath of office administered by Clerk of Court Robert Jackson, yesterday, preparatory to beginning their four-year term as members of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners. Lemmert, a war veteran of World War II, was elected to the county office for the first time, although he is a former mayor of Frostburg. Wilkinson is beginning his second term. James Holmes, Lonaconing was not sworn in yesterday, and will take the oath of office this morning, prior to the organization meeting of the board at 10 a. m.

Muriel Kerr Event Attracts Audience Of Nearly 1,000

Six encores played by Muriel Kerr, noted concert pianist, concluding her program last night at Fort Hill High School Auditorium, are evidence of the enthusiasm with which she was received by the audience of nearly 1,000 persons.

Miss Kerr wore a red velvet evening gown, in attractive contrast to her fair hair. She did not announce any of her selections, including the encores, all of which were short compositions.

Miss Kerr played with relaxation, and her firm, strong touch was at its best in the opening selections, the Bach "Toccatas in G Minor" and "Schumann's 'Carnival'."

Both compositions are difficult and extremely long, demanding precise memory and a high degree of technique. Miss Kerr's interpretation of the "Toccatas" was particularly good, and her excellence as a technician was also shown in the Schumann selection.
